

I'M NO STUD

Director's Statement

The premise for I'm No Stud came to me in a flash of panic as I contemplated the approaching birth of my daughter and her inevitable journey, or perhaps, demise into womanhood. Memories of my own childhood and teen years (wild parties, underage drinking, and STD scares) flooded my thoughts and my panic was quickly confirmed.

I stumbled out into the living room where my wife was relaxing with a good book and informed her that upon the first sign of puberty, our daughter would be off to a nunnery. Of course, my wife talked me down off the ledge, and I soon realized that I too would do what every sane parent does, commit to keeping his child safe, happy and healthy, while encouraging her to be her own person and live her own life. I'm No Stud is my preparation for the inevitable.
